"How do their bands compare with their teet?" was the next question.
"Their hands looked as though they required a gentleman's kid glove," said Mr. Wolf. "But they were faultless in shape, and had the sweetest pink nails that I sver saw on a hand." He smiled as he gain referred to their feet. "The oldest sister," he continued, "tried hard to queeze on a pair of eights, but without uccess. Finally she gave me an order to nake a pair of nines, and they really look well on her feet. You wouldn't think hey were nines to look at them." hey were nines to look at them."

Spanish ladies."
"What is the difference between the foot of a Southern lady and the foot of a Yankee womsn?" we inquired.

"The difference is the same as the difference between the foot of a Southern man and a Yankee," Mr. Wolf replied.
"Southern foet are narrow and howed in the middle, giving them a very high instep. The Yankee foot is spread at the toes, and has more surface. You, for instance, have a genuine Yankee foot. The difference from bunion to bunion - I beg pardon, from the joint of the big too to the joint of the little toe—is much greater than that of a Southern foot. There is much greace about the foot of a Yankee lady, but it lacks the suppleness of a Southern foot. Its merits are its exquisite shape, small heel and strength. Compare the walk of a Southern woman with a Yankee woman. The Yankee lady has a short, springy step. The little heel first catches the sidewalk, and the gaiters sound like the click of a telegraph instrument. The Southern woman walks larguild and makes long steps. The feet. ent. The Southern woman walks lan nidly and makes long steps. The feet take the difference. Let a Yankee girl make the difference. Let a lankee girl attempt the step of a Southern lady, and sine would turn her ankle. There is only one woman in the North whose foot will compare with the Southern foot."

"Name her," said the reporter.

the Aquackenonck Dutch ought to have splay feet, but it is not so."
"Numbers of the Aquackenonck Dutch married among the French Higgano; families of Staten Island," the reporter remarked. "Isn't it possible that the mixture of the blood may have something to do with the size of the feet?"
"That's so," replied Mr. Wolf; "I never thought of that. One thing is certain, I never saw a prettier foot than the foot of the blue-blooded Jersey weman. They would go into a salt cellar. It is worth a trip to Jersey just to Took at the feet of the women."

"How do the feet of the Jersey men-sompare with them?"
"Good Lord!" exclaimed Mr. Wolf.
"Don't talk about it. The real Jersey man has a foot like a griddle. Put a brick in a glove-box, and it would lay clean over the foot of the Jersey man. If there is any one man in this world whose foot is ugiler than that of any other one man in this world, that man is a Jersey man."

Virginia's Poverty and One of Ita Cause

It makes the merchants of this lower country feel like emigrating to read of the increasing prosperity all through the North and West, and still to have the consciousness that hardly a single drop from the golden shower will fall on their neighborhood. Whether it is true or not, as "Dal-ton" affirms in the Brooklyn Aryu of the entire South, that "it is growing steadily poorer," it is certain that in Virginia the annual returns of taxable property show a constant falling off in amount; and in this tide-water region there is an increased a constant falling off in amount; and in this tide-water region there is an increased inability on the part of a majority to meet their taxes and a diminished expenditure owing to diminished production. This "decreasing ability" is the staple argument of the agitators for another "readjustment," which, as they affirm, is entirely due to the incompetency of the "ma," and would be remedied by a substitution of the "outs." Now, every one conversant with matters here knows that the reason of there being so little accumulated capital here and so much real thorough poverty is not to be found in the government, nor climate, nor location, but in the habits and pursuits of the people. There was a "mass meeting" of the "dissatisfied" at the Court House on July court day, and a study of those present is to the reason of the lack of prosperity. Here was a large audience entirely of farmers, or rather containing a dozen farmers and a crowd of cultivators of corn cultivating by the methods of their grandfathers, and with vastly diminished results. About one in six was the owner of land, and the rest were "tenants"—whites and blacks in about equal numbers—"crapping" the land on shares, finding team and seed and taking two-thirds of the crop. Now, it is not probable that one of the "tenants" has ever drawn a carload of manure in his life, and it is certain that this land, in his life, and it is certain that this land, in his life, and it is certain that this land,

And this infinitisimal result has cost a year of severer labor than it costs the englatened farmer, using modern methods, to raise six times that amount, because the soil immediately under the two or three inches he disturbs, has become filled up with 'trash,' roots of sassafras, gim and locust, the sprouts of which it takes is a long time to "grub" out in the spring, and require a constant catting all through the season, or they would overtop the crop. "The disease progressed until the victim was seized with convulsions on the day of the arrival of the first ten gallons of the healing water." Mr. M. continues: "The day after the convulsions we commenced to give lim Bethesda Water. His thirst was extreme, and the greatest care had to be exercised to keep him from drinking too much. But from the hour that we commenced giving Bethesda he began to mend. Nearly two kegs of Bethesda were used before we dared to let him travel, and we sent him to Waukesha." After stating that his son's disease is passing entirely away, the reverend gentleman thus concludes:
"His cure by Bethesda Water seems to me little less than miraculous. To his parents he is like one 'sont back from the grava." And it is like one 'sont back from the grava." COLLINS' VOLTAIC ELECTRIC PLASTERS

THE GREATEST MEDICAL WONDER OF THIS CENTURY.

Pain and Weakness cannot exist where they are applied. They vitalize, strengthen and support Weak and Painful Parts; they cure Chronic Aliments and Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys; they absorb Poisons from the Blood and thus prevent Fever and Ague and Malarial Contagious Diseases; they stimulate the Stomach and Digestive Organs when placed over the pit of the stomach, and prevent Dyspepsia, Billious Colic, Cramps and Pains. They have done more for suffering humanity than all the other plasters, liniments, lotions and electric appliances ever concocted.
